6 thorization Act for Fiscal Year 2000 (Public Law 106-
7 65; 10 U.S.C. 113 note)(commonly referred to as the 8 “China Military Power report”), the Secretary of Defense,
9 in consultation with the heads of such other Federal de-
10 partments and agencies as the Secretary of Defense may 11 determine appropriate, shall include a component on 12 emerging technological developments involving the Peo-
13 ple’s Republic of China.

14 (b) MATTERS.—Each report component referred to 15 in subsection (a) shall include an identification and assess-
16 ment of at least five fields of critical or emerging tech-
17 nologies in which the People’s Liberation Army is in-
18 vested, or for which there are Military-Civil Fusion Devel-

1 opment Strategy programs of the People's Republic of 2 China, including the following:

3 (1) A brief summary of each such identified
4 field and its relevance to the military power and na-
5 tional security of the People's Republic of China.

6 (2) The implications for the national security of 7 the United States as a result of the leadership or 8 dominance by the People's Republic of China in each
9 such identified field and associated supply chains.

10 (3) The identification of at least 10 entities
11 domiciled in, controlled by, or directed by the Peo-
12 ple's Republic of China (including any subsidiaries 13 of such entity), involved in each such identified field,
14 and an assessment of, with respect to each such en-
15 tity, the following:

16 (A) Whether the entity has procured com-
17 ponents from any known United States sup-
18 pliers.

19 (B) Whether any United States technology
20 imported by the entity is controlled under 21 United States regulations.
