1           (4) DATABASE ACCURACY AND ACCOUNT-
2           ABILITY.—The database or similar system referred 3           to in section 1902(II) of the Social Security Act shall 4           be accurate and accountable consistent with the fol-
5           lowing:

6                   (A) The entity operating the database or 7                   system shall provide a mechanism for the re-
8                   porting of inaccurate or incomplete information
9                   in the database or system.

10                   (B) Such entity shall respond to reports of 11                   inaccuracy or incomplete information within 45
12                   business days.

13                   (C) Such entity shall provide information
14                   on the process the entity uses to correct such 15                   information.

16                   (D) Insofar as third parties use data from 17                   such database or system, there shall be an obli-
18                   gation on such parties to maintain such infor-

1           mation current with the most current informa-
2           tion available through the database or system.
